The people did not arise because there was no occasion for an uprising. A "popular" movement to be such in fact must come up from the rency bill made by bankers will people; it can not be hatched out in a real estate office and driven into the doubtless receive due consideration. minds of the people. "Its the people of England" said the three tailors of Pres. Wilson has let it be understood an extra skirt, The minions of the law Tooley street and the people of England laughed. "Its the citizens of that suggestions will be welcomed. South Bend" wheezed the four ex-presidents of the chamber of commerce and the people of South Bend chortled.

The scheme of the four ex-presidents was a clever one and if backed by honesty of purpose or in the hands of popular leadership might have assumed proportions. With high sounding but false noted platitudes they sought to arouse the public but the people are not so easily misled. The Tribune whined the same old whine that it has overworked since Colfax the election of Patrick A. Joyce for nal vevities will eventually prevail. was mayor and Tony Barrett was king. It attacked the character of men better known and better beloved than itself, it traduced the good name of izens' primary. the city and heralded its false utterances abroad as it has done to South Bend's damage for many years, but the Tribune has never led a popular movement under its present editorial control.

As we have observed, the scheme was a clever one. With the republi- ates speculation as to what the limit Man Sentenced to Six Months in South | boasted a really handsome group can party hopelessly divided and the leaders of each faction at sword's may be. points, there appeared an opportunity for a new Moses to arise to lead the broken columns together. As a matter of business policy the Tribune could not espouse the cause of the republican minority, it did not have the courage to follow over to the majority wing of the party. Now there are in every community those who itch for the power of place and the prestige of being near the throne. South Bend numbers such among its people -but it does not boast much about it. We have four ex-presidents of the C. of C., men who enjoyed a temporary seeming importance. As a coterie Messrs, Miller, Happ, Keller, and Guilfoyle rode that organization almost to its death. At one time they schemed a plan by which the ex-presidents be- combination planned it all came out request was granted, the judge ordercame ex-officio directors-a plan aimed to prolong their personal control in the wash but when their resolution was presented to the members it met a violent death. But that is another story. The Tribune thought the ex-presidents would be ideal factors in wishing its new movement upon the people. * LITTLE OLD NEW YORK * It sought to disguise the plan to solidify its party by avoiding the beaten paths of politics. But the people are wise in their day and generation. No one was fooled.

The ex-presidents featured Guilfoyle as a democrat opposed to poli- * * ticians. Guilfoyle of the Michigan City convention, Guilfoyle of the fifth ward Lester-Skillman fight, Guilfoyle, who has dictated more democratic patronage than any other non office-holding democrat. Is it any wonder the people smiled? In this brief resume we neglect to mention that Mr. Guilfoyle is not doing any particular patronage dictating at the present time, hence etc., etc., etc.

Then D. W. Place was aroused from a political rest. The curse of re- magazine. He and his wife, Edith, publicanism must be removed from the new party.
